OCTOBER 2025

LATEST NEWS

A star is born

Derby is celebrating the recent announcement that Game of Thrones star Sophie Turner will play Lara Croft in the upcoming Prime Video TV series Tomb Raider. The news comes at the same time that the fictional archaeologist, loved by millions in games and films, gets ready to celebrate her 30th birthday on 14 February 2026. News of Phoebe Mary Waller-Bridge's long-awaited collaboration with Amazon, alongside the fact that all six of the original games are being remastered and released, makes this an excellent time to also celebrate the fact that Lara Croft is one of Derby's most famous daughters. The 5th annual #TR29 event at Derby QUAD on Saturday 11 October, meanwhile, will more than likely be yet another sell-out occasion, as visitors from near and far flock to Lara's home town. And, as well as enjoying a full programme of events on the day, they will be making their pilgrimage to the Lara Croft mosaic and cast-iron "star"-in-the-pavement.

Calling all influencers - Derby needs you!

Travel influencers and bloggers: dust down your Media Kits, and get ready to send them to Visit Derby. The city which has so far had around £4.48bn of investment in its infrastructure since 2011 - with a further £2.6bn already earmarked for future development - and which has some massive stories to tell in 2026 (including its part on The National Gallery's "Wright of Derby Exhibition" in London from 7 November 2025 to 10 May 2026; and the 30th birthday celebrations for Lara Croft), has received a modest amount of funding for an influencer campaign later this year. Watch out for more details, or contact Ian Weightman (ian@ianweightman.co.uk) in the meantime.

Wright of Derby: 'From the Shadows' to becoming a 'hot ticket for Autumn'

Broadcaster and The Times culture writer, Nancy Durrant, included The National Gallery's Wright of Derby: From the Shadows exhibition in the newspaper's 20 Hot Tickets To Book round-up last month. It was one of just four listed in her Visual Arts recommendations; and she wrote: "You'll probably recognise many of the fantastic pictures that The National Gallery is bringing together, but their maker, Joseph Wright of Derby remains strangely short of being a household name". This exhibition featuring some of his "hyper-dramatic candlelight pictures", she goes on to say, might go some way to fixing that. It runs from 7 November to 10 May, and will then travel to go on show in Derby Museum & Art Gallery in 2026.

BLOGS & FEATURES

Dracula Returns to Derby

In 1924, the iconic theatrical adaptation of Dracula made its world premiere right here in Derby. But when the curtain rose, the monstrous figure from the novel had transformed. Derby's Dracula was no longer a terrifying creature, but a suave and charming figure, donning evening attire and an elegant opera cloak. This depiction became the blueprint for Hollywood's Dracula, captivating audiences worldwide. 2026, meanwhile, will mark the 75th anniversary of Bella Lugosi's appearance on stage in Derby in later adaptation of the play, as well as his decision - while playing at the Hippodrome in Derby - to withdraw from the production, and effectively retire from the role. Find all upcoming Dracula events in Derby, as well as a Dracula Trail, here.

Half term, Halloween & Bonfire Night
