Derby Roundhouse set to host 10,000 Christmas party goers...

Derby's historic Roundhouse is set to be transformed into a spectacular 'Cirque de Lumière' – Circus of Light - this December, hosting an exciting series of Christmas parties available for corporate or private bookings.

The Roundhouse - the world's largest restored building of its kind - now sits as the flagship centre piece of Derby College's £48 million vocational campus on Pride Park. The venue will be the setting for Christmas parties staged by Vivid Experience, one of the UK's most prominent Christmas party organisers.

Guests at the parties will be treated to a canapé reception, entertainment including trapeze and hoop artists, a delicious 3-course dinner as well as being able to enjoy a spectacularly themed environment.

Richard Longhill, Managing Director of Vivid Experience, who also operate events in Leicester and Nottingham, explained: "The Roundhouse offers the perfect setting for a superb Christmas party – a beautiful, spacious venue with lots of internal height for performances and centrally located with a great reputation. The initial response from businesses and private groups has been very encouraging."

"We've put some ambitious plans in place to ensure our guests enjoy a party of proportions never seen before in Derby and The Roundhouse is such a unique venue that these parties will be the pinnacle of our events season"

Derby College Events and Conference Manager Helen Peden added: "The Roundhouse has hosted some spectacular events in the past two years but this Christmas package takes the venue to a whole new level."

"The totally unique proportions of The Roundhouse are ideal for staging such an innovative party format and we are thoroughly looking forward to working with the team at Vivid Experience to transform this fantastic building into Derby's premiere party venue this Christmas."
